MANY MORE THROUGH OUR
RAPIDLY GROWING

IMPACT

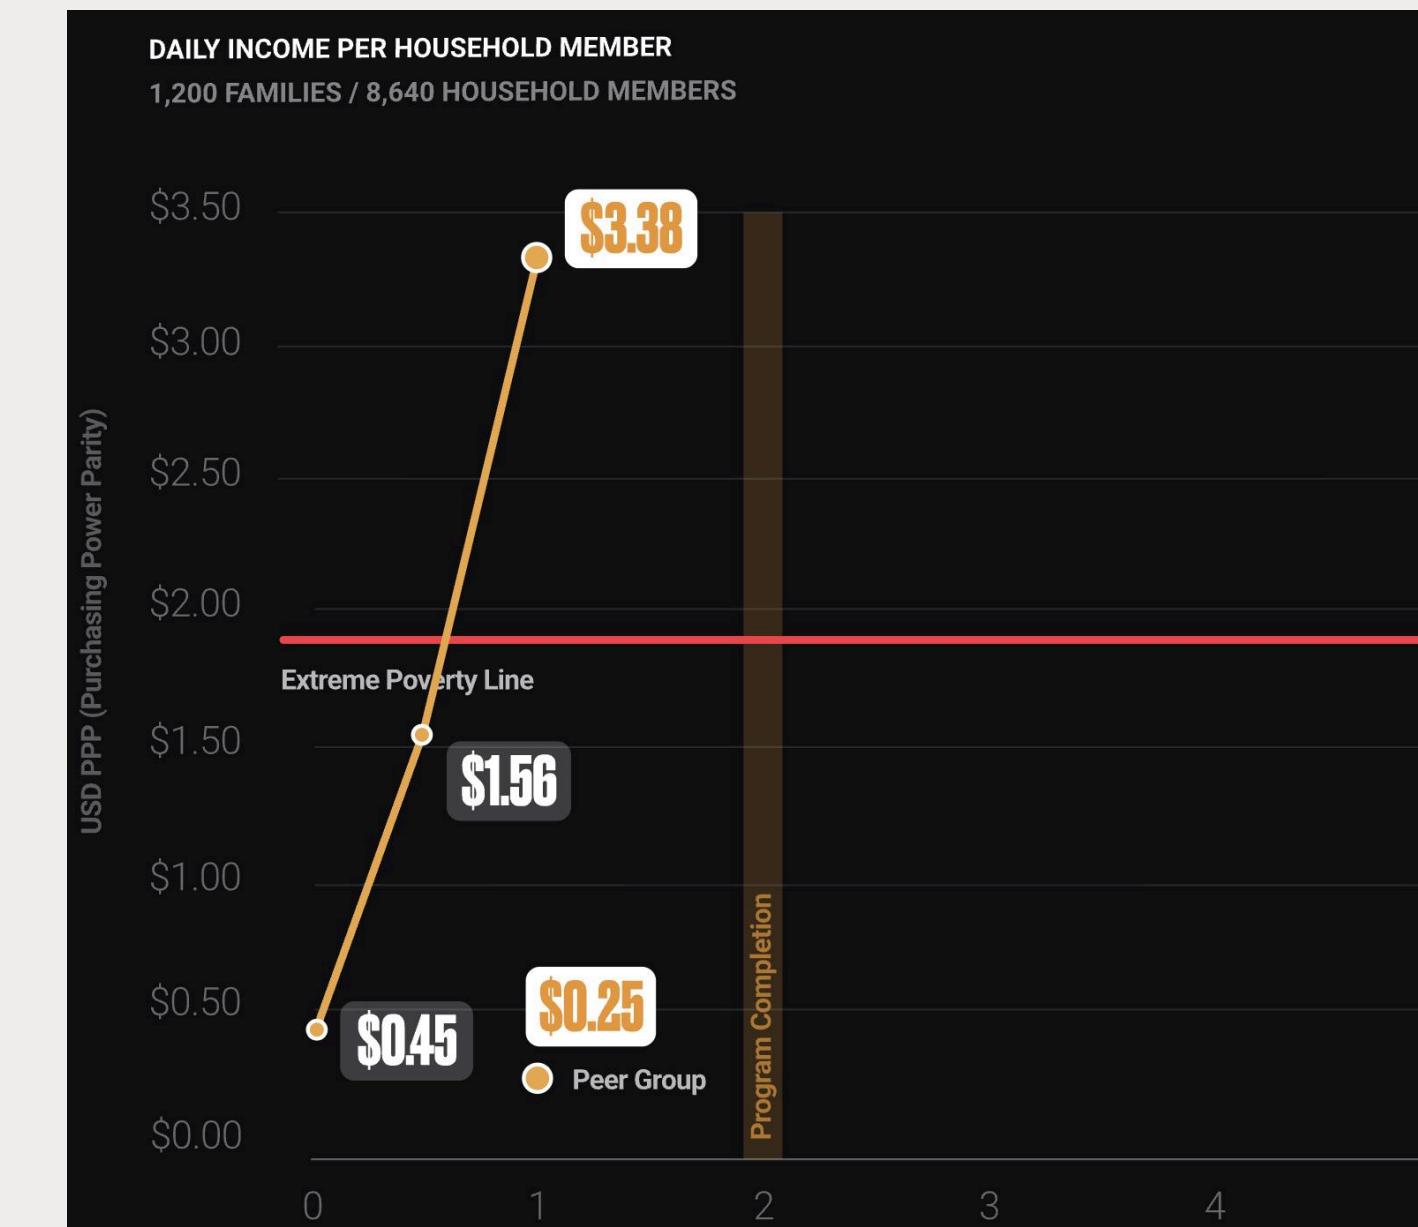

We prioritized the impartiality and precision of this report, which is why we collaborated with a local firm. The analysis was conducted by professors from Gulu University who assessed the impact of every Cohort, past and present, as well as a comparable peer group.

We used the most up-to-date PPP (purchasing power parity) conversion rate for income data and we winsorized all data to remove outliers.

Additionally, while calculating averages, we used the actual number of dependents in each household (average family size: 7.2) instead of using the “standard” household size (average family size: 4.8) which could potentially inflate our impact.
