IMPACT

Everything we do drives towards one goal. To see every member of every family living above the extreme poverty line of $2.15 / day.

The independent evaluation of our impact was led by Gulu University Senior Lecturer Dr. Odongo Walter. He has over 30 research articles published in international peer-reviewed journals, holds a PhD in Agricultural Economics from Ghent University (Belgium), and perhaps most importantly grew up in Northern Uganda. He was supported by Dr. Akita Irene who earned a PhD in Agriculture and Applied Bio-Sciences from Gulu University. Their team assessed every household for Cohort Three 2022-2023 and sampled all previous Cohorts and Cooperatives to assess the durability of our impact. The data in this report had every potential counterfactual removed, was audited to ensure accuracy, and was winsorized to remove potential outliers. For averages, the actual family size (7.7) was selected vs the typical standard (4.5) size to ensure accuracy and avoid inflating impact. The income data uses the most up-to-date PPP (purchasing power parity) conversion rate.
